FRENCH GOVERNMENT MAY BE MOVED FROM PARIS TO BORDEAUX

People Fearful of German Invasion Are Moving Rapidly from Capital to South and West—Felt That Fewer Non-Combatants in City the Better—Preparations Being Made for Siege—Great Activity on Part of Municipal Military.

Washington, Aug. 31.—France is considering the advisability of moving the seat of her government from Paris to Bordeaux as a precautionary measure. According to official advisers received here today the French foreign office has discussed the idea of moving the capital, with foreign diplomats so that they could make proper arrangements. It is considered most probable that Ambassador Herriot will remain in Paris in order to better care for Americans should Paris be invaded by the German army.

Bulletin—Paris, Aug. 31.—(11:08 p.m.)—All night long troops from the east and west of France have been arriving at the capital and proceeding to the location in the surrounding fortifications to which they have been assigned. There is great activity on the part of the municipal military in completing the details of the plans for the defence of Paris.

No official information regarding the military situation on the frontiers has been made public today up to now. The municipal authorities have been notified in the streets of Paris today was caused chiefly by the thousands of persons who are preparing to leave the capital.

Salient Features of Today's War News

Terrific fighting continues on the Austro-Russian frontier. Both the combined Austrian and German forces and the Russian army have clashed. Berlin reports the capture of 30,000 Russians. From Austrian sources it is said that the Russians are being pursued in the direction of Lublin in Russian Poland. Earlier advices from St. Petersburg stated that the Austrians were active chiefly in the vicinity of Lublin.

A news despatch from St. Petersburg says the Russian advance in east Prussia is proceeding and repeats an earlier Russian claim of successes in Galicia.

Fresh forces of Germans have appeared on the Prussian front, according to a British official report.

This bears out recent statements from Belgium that the Germans were withdrawing troops from their western front to reinforce the Austro-German lines in the east.

Up to noon today no official announcement had been made at London or Paris. News despatches indicate that the Germans are pressing toward Paris and that one army is within 60 miles of the French capital.

Paris is preparing for a siege. Everywhere railroads are filled with non-combatants, while troops from the south and west are arriving to reinforce the garrisons already in the ring of the city's fortifications.

Dover reports that firing, evidently from vessels along the French coast, was heard there this morning.

His majesty's government has not yet been delivered to them. His majesty's government has not yet been delivered to them. His majesty's government has not yet been delivered to them."

OFFENSIVE IS AGAIN TAKEN BY FRENCH ON RIGHT; BATTLE IS NOW SAID TO BE GENERAL

Morale of Allied Troops Excellent, and Notwithstanding Checks Armies Remain Intact—To the West German Onslaught Drives Defenders Back and Enemy Still Advances—In the Center Official Reports Say Neither Side Can Claim Victory—Kaiser's Men Being Withdrawn From Belgium into Stop Russian Advance to the East.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Seventy-thousand British troops for the last three days held in check 200,000 German troops until relieved by French reinforcements, according to information here today through the neutral diplomats. The advice did not give the place of battle.

Although the German forces broke through the British lines in many places, the English held their own until French reinforcements arrived and then retired in good order. Military authorities of the frontiers were reported to have been greatly encouraged by the manner in which the British forces withstood the superior forces of the enemy. The information came from Paris through diplomatic sources.

Paris, Aug. 31.—(5 p.m.)—An official statement issued this evening summarizes the situation to date as follows:

"On our right after partial checks we have taken the offensive and the enemy is retreating before us."

"In the center we have had alternative checks and successes, but a general action is now being fought."

"On our left by a series of circumstances which turned in favor of the Germans and despite lucky counter attacks the Anglo-French forces were obliged to give way. As yet our armies, notwithstanding a few incontestable checks, remain intact. The morale of our troops is excellent in spite of considerable losses which also are being rapidly filled from regimental depots."

Germans Moving East.

London, Aug. 31.—(12:53 p.m.)—Recent reports from Belgium have told of the movement of the German troops trains east, indicating that the German general staff was withdrawing certain forces from their western front to reinforce the German and Austrian armies in east Prussia and Galicia. Berlin and St. Petersburg reports agree that there has been terrific fighting in those districts for several days.

"About 30,000 Russian prisoners including many high officers have been captured in battles in east Prussia. At Orlenstein, Hohenstein and Tannenberg, the Germans attacked the Russians near the three cities through swamps and lakes."

ASQUITH ROASTS TIMES FOR PUBLISHING STORY THAT WAS PESSIMISTIC

London, Aug. 31.—(6:00 p.m.)—Premier Asquith publicly repudiated the editor of the Times in the house of commons for some published despatches which created such excitement Monday morning.

"The publication of these despatches," said the premier, "seems to me a regrettable exception to the patriotic reticence which the press as a whole has shown up to the present, and I trust it will not occur again."

Mr. Asquith opposed the suggestion to allow correspondents to go to the front, but admitted that the public was entitled to prompt and authentic information as to what was happening there.

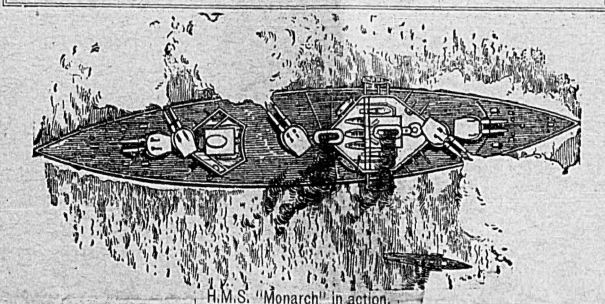

He said that arrangements were being made which he hoped would prove adequate.

Reverting to the Times despatch the premier then said: "It may become necessary to take the house to pass immediate drastic legislation which I shall be very loath to propose until the emergency becomes extreme."

The London Times on Sunday morning printed a despatch from Amiens, France, in which the correspondent took a very pessimistic view of the situation from the standpoint of the allies.

It was reported to Colonel Creelman who this morning told the story.

SAYS GERMAN AUTO TRUCKS TAKE ARMY FORTY MILES DAILY

They are equipped with machine guns, and are moving right through hedges and wire.

LOUVAIN A PITIFUL RUIN: UNIVERSALLY DEPLORED

London, Aug. 31.—(4:15 p.m.)—The magazine "World's Work," who went into Belgium some days ago, arrived in London today from Brussels, which the city he left last Thursday. Referring to the military situation, Dorch said the German auto trucks are a marvel. Equipped with machine guns, they move right through hedges and wire fences if the roads do not suit the drivers. The trucks are heavily armored, and they are able to resist anything except artillery fire. They enable the German forces to make forty miles a day. The number of these trucks seems unlimited.

It is estimated that 300,000 German troops have made their way through Brussels, and that 400,000 moved south of Brussels. The troops which passed through Brussels were later engaged with the British forces. Only a small detachment of Germans was left in the Belgian capital.

"Louvain is a pitiful ruin. It came through that city on my way out from Belgium and now is held a prisoner of war. Only the big cathedral was visible above the smoke, and that may have gone later. I was unable to go to Louvain, where the American colleges maintained by American bishops are located. I heard that they had displayed the American flag and had been spared."

Wait, the little step son of the alleged murderer. This morning William Mowatt gave himself up to the provincial police without resistance.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—(By wireless to the A.P.)—It was officially announced here today that about thirty thousand Russians had been taken prisoners by the Germans during the fighting in East Prussia. They include many officers of higher rank. The German attack at these points was across swamps and lakes.

GERMAN ADVANCE ARMY NOT WITHIN TEN MILES OF AMIENS, IT IS SAID

London, Aug. 31.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Amiens dated Sunday says:

"So far the German army advance had not come within ten miles of this city. It was pitiable to see the unhappy villagers turned out of their houses at Amiens with such of their clothing and furniture as they were able to carry."

"I have not been able to discover whether it was General Faur's army from Mulhausen or other fresh troops which checked the German advance, but for the moment General Pau is the popular hero here. All seem to believe that he will turn the tide."

BODIES OF DROWNING VICTIMS NOT FOUND

The bodies of the victims of the drowning disaster at Cocking Lake have not as yet been recovered, the high wind and waves prevailing over the lake making it very difficult for those grappling to proceed with the work. A mounted policeman near the spot shortly after the accident and he at once made arrangements for grappling lines in order to drag the bodies. Another fact that makes it difficult is that the disaster occurred such a distance from where that it will be hard to find the exact location.

NOTHING THAT HAS HAPPENED IS REASON FOR THE DESPAIR THAT IS FELT BY THE PUBLIC

French and English Now Holding Much Stronger Position in Close Line and Are Stemming German Hordes Rolling Into Paris—Deadly Check at Mulhausen Has Been Repeated—People in Northern France Panic-Stricken Leave Towns on Approach of German Troops and Suffer Untold Agonies From Exposure and Hunger—People Listen Intently for First Approach of Uhlans.

(By Philip Gibbs.)
At the front, near Amiens, Saturday, August 29.—Looking back on all I have seen during the last few days, I find it difficult to piece together the various incidents and impressions to make one picture. It all seems to me now like a jigsaw puzzle of suffering, fear, courage and death. The French army and our English troops are now holding good positions in a much stronger and closer line and are stemming the tide of the German hordes rolling up to Paris. General Pau, the hero of this war, after his swift return from the eastern front where he repaired the deadly check at Mulhausen, has dealt a smashing blow at a German army corps which was striking the heart of France and Paris is still safe for the time being, with a great army of allied forces, French, English and Belgian, drawn across the country as a barrier, which surely will not be broken by the enemy. Nothing that has happened gives cause for that despair which has taken hold of the people, whose fears have exaggerated facts. There is no proof that resistance is impossible against the onslaught of the German legions.

Allies Not Demoralized.

I have been into war and seen the last five days the men who are holding the lines of defence. I have been among their dead and wounded and have talked with soldiers marching fresh to the front. I have seen the horror which is cleared up after a battle, and the grim picture of retreat. But nothing that I have seen or heard from either British or French leads me to believe the allies have been demoralized. It is impossible to estimate our own losses. Our wounded are being brought back into Havre and Rouen and undoubtedly there are large numbers of them, but putting that at the highest, it is clear to me from all the information gathered during the five days there has been no overwhining disaster.

At Quentin our main forces, which were pressed by enormous numbers of the enemy, succeeded in withdrawing in good order without having their lines broken while inflicting terrible punishment upon the German right. As I shall show in this narrative retreats which seem fatal when seen close at hand, when described were found to belong to broken fragmentary lines, are not altogether disastrous in their effect when viewed in their right perspective away from immediate misery which is their inevitable accompaniment.

There Will be No Retreat.

The German authority of attack against the heroic courage of French and British forces, who fight every mile of ground, is leading the enemy into a position from which there will be no retreat for the lines. Unfortunately there are hundreds of thousands of people who know nothing of the great issues and the danger of a great blind fear which has driven them from their towns, villages, and homes. That is inevitable. Little they found, to their amazement, that town, surrounded by forts, had been abandoned, and they had only to walk inside. Easy access to the town which should have been defended. The last gap open was to the west of France. Men were supported by English troops, all too weak to sustain the pressure of the tremendous orders which began to surge against them, and realising the perilous state of affairs, the brain and the center of things, the controlling brain of Gen. Joffre, and his headquarters staff, decreed that the west corner of France was untenable, and that the main army of defence should withdraw into a stronger and closer formation. It was then that a great panic began in speed and terror. During the end of last week I was in the midst of it, and saw unfortunate scenes of tragedy. It was the flight of hundreds and thousands of families from St. Omer, Houthaix, Ebbluine, Douai, Valenciennes, and Arras, who were driven away from their homes by the advance of approaching Uhlans.

They are still haunted by fear. They are still being haunted by the other quick fliers and replying shot for shot. When the main German advance came down the valley the French artillery raked them with a terrific fire, but the Germans, with incredible coolness, began erecting position bridges, and although hundreds of men died on the bank, they succeeded in their endeavor, while the artillery searched the hills for the hidden runners, quickly forcing the French to retire. Thus long retirement by the French has enabled the allies to draw close together and form a solid front. On the map, of course, it is an unhappy thing to the whole of France, north of Amiens, but it should be realized in order to lure the Germans to their own destruction. It was almost necessary to manoeuvre into the position they now occupy. The success of General Pau shows that all opposition are taking offensive.

ALLIES RETREAT TO LURE GERMANS TO DESTRUCTION

Counting Life Cheap, Officers of Kaiser Push Men Forward at a Terrific Sacrifice—Hundreds Are Destroyed When French Engineers Blow up Bridges as Teutons Were Crossing—Allies Now Close Together and Form Solid Front.

London, Aug. 31. (4:15 a.m.)—An Amiens despatch to the Daily Chronicle says:

"The French regiment before the German horde advancing from Namur down the valley of the Meuse was masterly. The Germans won their way in a cost in human life as great as in defeat; yet they won their way. For France, that regiment was as glorious as anything in their annals. It was nearly a fortnight ago that the Germans began, concentrating their heaviest forces on Namur, pressing southwards over the Meuse valley, after the battle of Dinant the French army was heavily outnumbered and fell back gradually in order to gain time for reinforcements to come to its support.

The French artillery was posted on the heights above the river and swept the advancing Germans with a storm of shot. On the right French infantry was entrenched, supported by the field guns and mitrailleurs. The infantry did glorious work in holding the position with great tenacity and dropping back only to occupy new positions just as doggedly.

The Germans showed heroic work. They were reckless of life. They lost desperately. Thirty bridges were destroyed by French engineers blowing them up. The fighting extended for a considerable distance on both sides of the Meuse and many sideline engagements were fought.

The customs official left the police disarmed, while a flag with nine black spots was made ready to be hoisted on the fort directly any Uhlans were sighted.

The people of Boulogne could not understand why the forts were silent. After the tramp of so many regiments they have left a great track of country opened and undefended. In that corner of France the people listen intently for the first clatter of hoofs and for the first cry of "The Uhlans." Rumor came that the enemy had been seen in the neighboring towns and villages. No wonder that mothers and fathers rushed from their houses in a blind, unreasoning way, to swell the panic of fugitives, homeless and without food, dropping here and there on the way-side in utter weariness.

HOME DEFENCE CORPS WILL BE FORMED HERE

On Saturday evening at a meeting held in the Reparat school hall, the first steps were taken for the formation of a home defence corp in the city of Edmonton.
The purpose is to form a regiment, or if necessary a couple of regiments, from which can be drawn as required, men for service in Edmonton or any part of the dominion.

Leutenant Governor Bulver opened the meeting, and after speeches by Colonel E. B. Edwards and others, a committee consisting of Colonel E. B. Edwards, Colonel F. J. Ford, Colonel Arnot, Major Harwood, Major Thibault, Justice Wilson and Messrs Palmer and Johnson, was chosen to look after the details of organization. It is expected that the committee will probably open the lists today. The idea is that when another call for volunteers comes men will be available, who are at least partially trained for service.

Colonel Edwards suggested that two regiments be formed, one of young men who would be willing to go out to the front immediately, if necessary, and the other of older men who would form a defensive force.

GERMANS ONLY 60 MILES FROM PARIS; SITUATION GRAVE

Two of Kaiser's Armies Are Now Said to Be Only Forty Miles Apart.

ENEMY STATED TO HAVE CLEAR COUNTRY BEHIND

Sharp Offensive Movement Will Interpose it Between Frenchmen and Capital

London, Aug. 31.—The Post editorially calls attention to a statement issued by the French embassy as indicating that the allied forces have again been compelled to fall back before the German advance in the neighborhood of La Fere, which is over 20 miles nearer to Paris than the Cambrai. Le Chateau line where the allies reorganized after the Germans crossed the French border. Fighting is also reported in the vicinity of Mons. La Fere is a little more than 60 miles from Paris as the crow flies. The Post says:

"A statement issued by the French embassy discloses a situation of much gravity. A German army was on Saturday attacking from the east the line of Launois-Signy-L'Abbaye, while another German army was attacking from the west the line from La Fere to Guiz and although unsuccessful at Guiz was making progress at La Fere. These two German armies were therefore only 40 miles apart.

"The German army attacking on the front at Guiz and La Fere has clear country behind it, and a sharp offensive turning movement on the south-east by this army will interpose it between the French and Paris."

BELGIUM REPLIES WAR DECLARATION SENT BY AUSTRIA

Antwerp, August 31.—(Via Paris, 12:12 p.m.)—The following official statement was made public here today: "The Belgian government, replying under date of August 29, to the Austro-Hungarian declaration of war and the representations made at this same time, declares as follows: "Belgium always has maintained friendly relations with all its neighbors and has fulfilled the duty imposed by neutrality. If she could not accept the proposals of the Germans, it is because they had for their object the violation of an engagement which was a condition of the creation of the kingdom. Belgium does not think that any people, however weak, could mistake their duty and sacrifice their honor by invading a neighborly state."

Montreal, Aug. 31.—An all-Irish regiment is in process of formation here, recruiting already being under way. It is planned to create eight companies of 47 men each, and with the officers the regiment will number about 400. W. P. O'Brien has been suggested as commander. ## To Look Young Quickly For Special Occasion

How often have you fussed and puffed with your face on the eve of some important social event when you wanted to look your prettiest, and try what you would find couldn't get the desired result? Just time your face becomes surely, exuding a carefree and easy appearance, and crispened with fine lines, here's something that will quickly transform it into one of youthful freshness.

Just an ounce of powdered talcote at your drugist's, mix this with about a half pint of water, and rub your face in the solution for two or three minutes. Instantly after you feel a "tightening up" of the skin and underlying tissues, wrinkles, worry marks and blemishes, for immediate service, and that the organization will be made permanent.
